

Jamie Martin Caves currently serves as the Vice President and General Counsel for Ross Health Care. She received a Bachelor of Science Degree from Oklahoma State University where she was named one of the University's "Top Ten Graduating Seniors." Jamie was a Justice Harry Halley scholar at the University of Oklahoma School of Law where she received her Juris Doctor degree.

Jamie has practiced law in the areas of insurance defense and corporate litigation in private firms prior to joining the State of Oklahoma as Assistant General Counsel specializing in insurance regulation and administrative litigation. Jamie served as the Supervisor of Workers' Compensation and Disability Management at OGE Energy Corporation until joining Ross Health Care where she is responsible for all areas of Risk Management, Human Resources and Regulatory Compliance.

Jamie is a member of the Oklahoma Bar Association and serves as the Secretary of the Oklahoma Self Insurers Association. Jamie, along with her husband Matt and sons Jackson and Karter are loyal Oklahoma State Cowboy fans.